Nature's Fruit, LLC (Blue Flowers) has announced the launch of a new product onto the Amazon marketplace. The company recently released the Ponytail women's hair growth supplement that is targeted toward those who want to naturally promote hair regrowth without harsh chemicals or additives.

Al Flores, a spokesperson for the company says, "Naturally, women would want to avoid looking older, which can happen with hair loss. They also want to avoid harsh chemicals like sprays and lotions that may be more harmful than they are good. Our formula contains natural ingredients and helps you to not only grow your hair but to have stronger nails and more vibrant skin."

The capsules contain biotin, which has been shown to help support thicker hair as well as stronger nails. The company states that the supplements contain a blend of 17 key vitamins as well as herbs, minerals, and amino acids in addition to the biotin to help promote stronger and longer hair and to prevent hair loss. Flores says the key is that the biotin and other ingredients work from the inside out.

"You're actually taking something into your system that helps your body to produce healthier skin, hair, and nails instead of putting something on your hair that could easily be washed away," says Flores.

The supplement capsules, which can be seen at <https://www.amazon.com/Ponytail-Womens-Hair-Supplement-Capsules/dp/B00W48NVFC/>, are designed to protect the hair and help restore it from dried or dyed hair, as well as those who have used other chemical treatments on their hair such as permanent waves. The company states that compared to other similar products, their hair growth supplement has a longer list of key ingredients and an extra strength formula that provides for more hair growth and more naturally younger looking skin. Nature's Fruit also states that their capsules are also designed with a specially blended formula that contain essential vitamins and amino acids needed to grow hair faster without side effects that can cause reactions or nausea.

Those interested in learning more about the biotin based supplements and the other ingredients that they contain, or in reading reviews from customers who have tried them, can visit the company on their Amazon seller's page.
