

Nutrivee Launches New Prebiotic Formula

April 11, 2017

April 11, 2017 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Nutrivee in Las Vegas, Nevada, has announced the launch of their new advanced prebiotic formula. The company states that the formula is now available for purchase through their website and says that it offers a number of benefits.

Mike Law, a representative for the company, says, "You need prebiotics for optimal health. These are nutrients that you can't digest but they are used to feed the probiotic bacteria in the digestive system that promote better health."

Law says that most prebiotic supplements cause bloating and gas, which is why many consumers will not take them. These uncomfortable side effects for many are not worth the benefits of taking a prebiotic. To remedy this, Nutrivee has developed an advanced prebiotic formula that helps to support healthy microbiomes in the digestive tract without causing gas and bloating.

"Our formula is not starch or fiber based," says Law. "This means that you don't end up with that horrible bloating and gassy feeling that you get with other prebiotics."

Law says that the new supplement works throughout the gut, not only in the large intestine and can be taken in smaller doses for the same effect as other prebiotics that are fiber based but cause gas and bloating. The prebiotic is designed to take effect within just hours and is all natural, 100 percent vegetarian and gluten and GMO free.

Nutrivee has performed various studies that show the advanced formula triggered the growth of probiotics at 71 times the speed of other fiber based products. A second study showed that the formula caused an increase in the growth rate of Bifidobacterium longum, which plays a vital role in immune system and digestive system health. In a third study done by the company, the formula was shown to increase the rate of probiotic bacteria growth for Lactobacillus lactis, which is normally found in the small intestine and integral to the balance of healthy bacteria.

Law states that the formula provides a well regulated immune system as well as a healthy and balanced digestive system for optimal health and weight. He says that probiotic bacteria play a strong role in the metabolism and that taking prebiotics can help with the growth of healthy probiotics throughout the body.
