Rich Tradesman has announced the launch of a new website that offers information for those who want to start or are already in the business of helping homeowners. The company states that business owners and commissioned sales people that work in the contracting industry and various other businesses can learn how to get more clients through many different forms of marketing.

"We wanted to help those who want to begin or already have a contracting or similar business to gain leads and ultimately, new customers," says Kelly Kramer, owner and founder of Rich Tradesman. "You can like our Facebook page to get more information."

Kramer says that the new website will be focused on how to begin and maintain a contracting or other trade business and will offer information to businesses on how to gain more clients through press releases, search engine optimization, and many other forms of marketing. The site will offer information for businesses in all industries regarding strategies for starting or marketing a business as well as other business related topics. Examples from Kramer's personal business experiences are provided and offer insights for those working in the plumbing, painting, handyman, flooring, building, and other trade type industries.

Kramer states that those interested can also join the company's Facebook group to begin interacting with others in similar businesses and asking questions about helping their businesses to grow.

"It is always a good thing to have a community where you can share stories and interests with others in your industry," Kramer states. "We've developed the website as well as the Facebook group to give you a place to hang out and interact with others who are just like you."

Kramer says that the website contains categories on how to begin a business as well as various marketing, branding, promotional, leadership and business topics. Kramer's experience includes owning and operating a fry truck, purchasing real estate for investments, renovating and flipping houses, and owning an energy management company.

Those interested in learning more about the new site or Kramer's additional experience and qualifications can do so on the new Rich Tradesman website at <https://richtradesman.com>.
