May 01, 2017 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Charlotte, North Carolina based IBG Software has announced that they are now offering Android app development. The company specializes in solutions from high tech to finance and helps consultants support those solutions.

Company representative Diondre Lewis says, "We have a team of experts as well as designers and backend programmers that can develop any sort of program that could possibly be run on the Android platform. We are excited to have expanded our offerings to include this very popular operating system and know that we have what it takes to get your project designed and delivered, under your budget."

Lewis states that their staff can develop hybrid, Android studio, Xamarin, Eclipse and a number of other projects for customers. More on their specific offerings can be seen at <http://ibgsoftware.com/android-app-development-company/>.

The mobile division of IBG Software focuses on advanced mobile development as well as consulting and education. They provide services for all mobile platforms and their staff members have already been involved in the creation of more than 250 mobile applications. Their expertise runs the gamut from secure enterprise apps to interactive games and business to consumer applications.

Lewis states that the company never leaves customers in the dark and offers full consulting services to help them determine what they need and to learn all aspects of the software that has been developed. Interested customers can visit their IBG Software Twitter profile to learn more about this.

"We truly have a talented and knowledgeable staff," says Lewis. "No matter what you need done, we can do it, and we often beat the budget that you have in mind. Our goal is to deliver what you need and to make it easy for you to implement those solutions with our consulting services."

IBG Software has more than 30 years of experience in software development cycles as well as optimization and design of apps, and user interface design. Lewis states that the company has a team of intelligent and innovative mobile experts who are ready to help businesses to design and implement their Android app. More on the company and reviews from other customers can be seen by visiting IBG Software on Facebook.
