Chandler, Arizona - Those living in Chandler with back pain can now benefit from the gentle touch of a skilled and caring chiropractor. Children and adults who cringe at the thought of someone cracking their bones and twisting their muscles can rest easy in knowing that Dr. Greg Hauser specializes in providing gentle chiropractic techniques and pediatric care.

Lower back and neck pain are the common results of general wear and tear on the body that are often addressed through chiropractic care. However, previous techniques tended to cause more harm than good to the body. Dr. Hauser, a chiropractor in Chandler, AZ is trained in the Activator Methods Chiropractic Technique, or AMCT, which is an alternative to cracking the spine. This technique was developed over forty years of research and an additional fifteen years of trials. Practitioners of AMCT use an instrument known as the Activator Adjusting Instrument. This tool helps alleviate pain by providing rapid yet subtle adjustments.

There have been more than 35,000 chiropractors trained in AMCT but only 2,100 of them are Proficiency Rated. Dr. Hauser has achieved this rating and is tested annually in order to maintain it. His combination of skill, education, and groundbreaking techniques assure patients that they are in capable hands that will never cause more pain and will leave them feeling better when they leave his office than they did when they entered.

One of the most appealing aspects of Activator Methods Chiropractic Technique is that it's also great for children. Children are susceptible to back pain as well as adults, especially children who are involved in sports and other physical activities. Whereas outdated chiropractic techniques were not always safe for youngsters, AMCT is a safe way to get rid of discomfort children experience.
