Gainesville, Virginia - Those looking to have a perfect smile and fix crooked teeth now have a more comfortable and less noticeable alternative to metal braces. Dr. Reangber, an experienced dentist in Gainesville, VA, notes that Invisalign Express uses custom made, removable aligners that gradually straighten crooked teeth. The aligners are clear, making them virtually invisible so strangers don't have to know that patients are wearing them.

One of the biggest benefits of Invisalign Express is that the aligners are removable. Although the trays should be worn for 20 to 22 hours per day, there is time to take them out for eating, brushing and flossing. This allows for much better oral hygiene than can be achieved with traditional braces. Food that would get caught in braces can easily be cleaned away by simply removing the aligners and brushing or flossing as you normally would.

Another big advantage of Invisalign Express is the comfort it provides. Patients don't need to worry about abrasions or other irritations that wire braces are known to cause. Additionally, Invisalign Express gently controls the force and timing of the alignment, targeting specific teeth. The alignment is tailored to each patient making sure that results are achieved as comfortably as possible. A visit to Dr. Reangber's Gainesville, VA dental office allows patients to benefit from Invisalign's lauded mapping system to help get the right treatment planned and to see the precise results they can expect.

Because Invisalign Express aligners practically invisible, making them suitable for any lifestyle, but they also don't hinder fashion. Unlike traditional metal braces which attract the eye, Invisalign Express leaves a more natural appearance that allows other features to draw attention.

If now is the time to get a perfect smile without the hassle of traditional metal braces, call Dr. Reangber at her Gainesville, VA dentistry office at (571) 248-0700.
