Murbles Outdoor Game recently held their Annual Murble Tournament in Pensacola, Florida. 32 participants signed up for the Pepsi-sponsored event.

Pensacola FL: Murbles Outdoor Game and Murray Kramer are pleased to announce that the Annual Murble Tournament was recently held in Pensacola, Florida. The event was sponsored by Pepsi and 32 participants signed up for the competition. The oldest player was sixty years of age and the youngest was age ten. Murbles products can now be purchased on Walmart.com. The outdoor game was created in 1979 by Murray Kramer to provide a game which anyone could play and win.

The game is loosely based on the ancient European game called Bocce. The game pieces in Murray's game are called Murbles. They are sized right, lighter, more dynamic and exciting. The game can be enjoyed by the whole family. The game doesn't require a flat, dedicated playing court or complicated set-up. It can be played almost anywhere. Murbles are a perfect game for family reunions, picnics, camping, the beach, tailgating or just hanging out in the back yard.

When playing Murbles, speed, agility and even skill are not required assets. Instead, the players determine the pace and distance the game is played. This makes it an ideal game for kids, teens, adults and grandparents alike. Murbles come in a heavy duty canvas carrying bag with the game rules conveniently printed right on the back of the bag.

The game pieces are made in the USA with a focus on quality and craftsmanship. Murbles are injection-molded 3-inch diameter solid high density plastic balls weighing a half-pound each. The balls are available in twenty popular colors, so that the sets can be customized to match school colors, sports team colors or favorite hues. The standard game is designed to be played by two people, but larger sets can be purchased which are suitable for 3, 4, 8 or 16 players. The game can be played by people of all ages and skill levels.
