More and more people are heading to the great outdoors to walk, hike, or run. However, those who have been inactive for years are finding that they are having significant discomforts, including shin splints. Wanderlust is a company in Burlingame, CA, that is committed to helping people enjoy these types of activities safely and comfortably. They are proud to announce, therefore, that they have launched a new line of shin splint sleeves.

A representative from Team Wanderlust says: "Our new compression sleeves with KT tape design are guaranteed to provide pain relief and to prevent shin splints. It truly is our best calf support for running, cycling, endurance, cross training, performance sports, and more. We are so happy to see that the sleeves are already getting lots of positive reviews."

In fact, the running compression sleeves have received nearly 60 positive reviews, causing the item to have a 4.5 star rating on Amazon, which is quite unique for a product that has only been available for such a short period of time. Many people have hailed the sleeves for their comfort and effectiveness, helping them to perform better in their sports.

An Amazon customer says, "I ordered these because they simulate ktaping to help relieve shin splint pain. My son has struggled with shin splints in track this past 2 wks. [...] He wore your leg compression sleeves today for the first time at his track meet and reported being able to run pain free today for the first time in two weeks. So I'd say... Mission accomplished and exceeded my expectations."

Wanderlust has developed a number of different compression socks and sleeves, several of which have KT technology. Each of the Wanderlust compression sleeves has gone through a lengthy period of research and development to produce the best possible results. The Team Wanderlust representative says: "We want to make sure that people can be fit and healthy in a safe and comfortable manner. We go over every detail, testing and retesting each of our products for perfect quality control. We stand by our products, which is why we offer a 100% satisfaction guarantee as well."
