

Auto Don Introduces Online Shopping for Parts

June 08, 2017

June 08, 2017 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

The Auto Don website has been updated with a new e-commerce component, allowing shoppers to purchase parts for their vehicles without coming into the physical store.

Auto Don recently launched an online shopping portal for auto parts, which is available on its website as well as via an Android mobile app. With the launch of the service, car owners who need parts for their vehicles can now experience hassle-free shopping at their own convenience.

The new service allows shoppers to browse Auto Don's extensive catalogue of parts. The company currently stocks a wide range of Toyota, Nissan, Honda, Mitsubishi and Suzuki car parts. Customers who identify the part they are looking for can then proceed to add it to their shopping cart and make the purchase directly online using their credit card. Auto Don's island-wide delivery service further eliminates the need to visit the store, which also helps to save the customer time and money.

Using the website to shop for parts requires a simple two-step initial sign-up process. Customers who want to purchase parts in bulk, such as other auto dealers or fleet owners, can sign up as wholesalers in order to purchase their parts directly through the website. For private car owners, registering for the service requires downloading the mobile app to their smartphones or tablets and then signing up. After review, the customer is added to the Auto Don database and is then able to browse parts and make purchases.

Auto Don's new online shopping portal is open to all private vehicle owners, as well as to owners of garages, service stations, fleet operators, and other retailers. With more consumers doing business online, the company believes their new service will help shoppers acquire auto parts quicker and easier. The move is expected to revolutionize the way people purchase car parts in the local auto parts industry, while improving customer satisfaction.

Customers seeking auto parts can now access the Auto Don online shopping experience by registering through the website or downloading the app. Mobile users require devices running Android version 4.2 and up.
