Operations at the Scottish startup, Solas, are now in full swing after the company officially launched its sensual line of scented candles. Solas Candles are inspired by the Scottish culture and feature sensual fragrances such as Beatha (Life), Paisean (Love), and Fois (Serenity).

The company was started by Scottish friend, Michael, Mike, and Cheryl who were motivated by their desire to create a lifestyle brand that reflects the greatness of modern day Scotland. Speaking on the behalf of the trio, Cheryl said: "Solas wants to let the world know that Scotland may love tartan and haggis, but we also know style, good taste and beautiful homes."

Scented candles have become popular these days and sometimes fragrance is the only factor that impacts the decision to purchase a particular brand. However, apart from the fragrance, there are a few other things that set Solas Candles apart. While many brands use paraffin wax (a by-product of petroleum), Solas Candles are created from natural blends of soy beans and vegetable wax which are infused with fine quality fragrance oils. Soywax has a cleaner burn than paraffin based wax and does not release any toxins. The wicks are also natural and made from cotton and hemp.

Solas Candles can be purchased on Amazon.
