SpecialtyStyles, a company based out of Ontario, Canada, has announced that their scarf organizer is a life saver for those who need more organization in their homes. The company is known for their VIP membership, which allows members to receive coupons and discounts regularly as well as opportunities to test and review products before release. They have reported that their large customer base has had highly positive responses to this latest product, and invite those interested in the scarf organizer to

The scarf organizers come in packages of two, which the company believes is a great incentive, as it offers families the ability to share in different rooms of the house, for partners to share with their spouses, or for individuals to give one away as a gift. The device is designed to be used with scarves, but works with belts and other items that fit onto the twelve openings on each of the hangers. The tool is reportedly able to offer a neat and organized view of all scarves or other items, while still allowing for differentiation of colors and patterns so that users can see all of the materials hanging on the organizer. One customer left the following review describing their experience with the scarf organizer:

"I feel so organized now!! This is a great product- with one hanger you can organize up to 12 items and barely take up any space in your closet! I used one for my scarves and belts and the other I gave to my husband for his ties. I had my scarves previously draped over closet door hooks, and now I realize that I only ever wear the top 3 because I never bother to see what is under the stack! With this scarf hanger now they are all beautifully displayed for me whenever I need them."

SpecialtyStyles has stated that they designed the holder to be a fit for any scarf size, with 3 inch circles that allow products to slip through without falling out during storage. This is a highly attractive feature to some of the company's customers who have described competitor products of this type as letting them down when their scarves end up on the floor. Another satisfied customer exclaimed:

"The organizer keeps my scarves and belts hanging nicely without sliding off. It's lightweight and fit in any closet. There are two of them as a set,so I use another one for my tights. I can then quickly select any color I want, and can get it with ease. Very good product!"

SpecialtyStyles encourages all those interested in buying their scarf organizer to visit the company website. This provides insight into the look and use of the organizer, VIP membership application, organization tips, other products, and a video or video review whatever is best and describes the scarf to consumers. This also offers new and existing customers the chance to communicate with the company through their contact page, and learn more about upcoming products, or ask questions and leave feedback on the scarf organizer.
