

New Video Distribution Software Tool Video Synd Alpha Finally Released

June 10, 2015

June 10, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

SEO software specialist Anthony Hayes owner of Kiss Internet Marketing announces that his new Video Distribution Software Video Synd Alpha has launched.

Hayes explains, "This next-generation video distribution software tool, Video Synd Alpha, is now available. The video distribution software coders are putting the VSA software through comprehensive and rigorous testing to be sure all its various aspects are functioning as intended before release in the next few days."

Hayes is known for his exacting methods of testing, so this comes as no surprise. Video distribution software experts in both Internet and Video communications have been waiting impatiently for the new technology, which promises to be a comprehensive, one-stop tool for those needing an SEO solution.

Hayes is releasing the software under his new Alpha brand. When asked why the change, he said, "I take an important SEO-based strategy and modernize it with my own unique SEO strategies, those that I have created and used myself and know will work. I automate them into the ultimate "Alpha" tools. Hence the name."

Going in a new direction is nothing new for this veteran, which works to keep cutting-edge tools under his clients' fingertips. My team has been quietly working on a new brand and new direction since the two December launches and have been rebuilding our codes for video syndication software from the ground up to accommodate the new Alpha tools. We are taking the Alpha tools to the limit of video distribution software technology to an entirely new level.

Just a few things the new software can do:

Create thousands of accounts in one click for video distribution and social bookmark sites
Create linkwheels
Create silos
Make thousands of long-tail keyword posts
Enables content management, distribution, and monetization for content owners at every level

All these strategies, Hayes stresses, are automated so that they seem effortless to the end user. This is a real working video distribution strategy, and 90% unique to what I do myself; I have incorporated them in the creation of multiple tools within the Video Synd Alpha video distribution software. This is now the leading video distribution software tool available.

Hayes adds, No one has ever come close to this with any other video distribution software, because they do not have the strategies and wouldn't be able to compete with us on price or the SEO strategies even if they tried.
