July 18, 2017 -
After years of in depth research, National Press Distributors has finally prepared a press release for immediate release. The contents of this press release are the most customer centric baby food online retailers in the USA. The information in this press release is intended as a guide for new parents and returning customers to make better informed decisions.

Based in the Washington area, a small retailer Udderly Organics (udderlyorganics.com) has come out on top by focusing on their customers and products. They are known for fast shipping and great customer service. With a generous return policy and an overall rating of 5 stars, Udderly Organics is the highest recommended baby food company on the internet.

Courney S. on Facebook said, "So thankful for this service! I supplement with my twins and used them with my now 2 year old and have always experienced excellent service!!! The shipping is fast and they can always rely on the product to get to them in a timely manner which is so important to me when I have two bellies to fill!"

Sprouts Organic Baby Food is a USA based with a strong emphasis on only one brand. Their in house shipping and ordering system allows them to keep prices down. With sales throughout the year, parents are well taken care of each time they order.

Alycla T. on Influenster said, "I recommend this to first-time solid food eaters especially because they are Organic! So much better for their little digestive systems! Only con, they are a bit pricey, unless they have coupons or kind find a good sale (or get them given as gifts like I did)! I would definitely recommend these or other organic baby foods!"

Plum Organics is a USA based company with a focus on clean organic food. Well known for colorful packaging and ease of use. Child-friendly packaging shows parents that the needs of their children are being taken into consideration throughout every step of the manufacturing process.

Rachel on Amazon said, "I think Plum does a good job of getting healthy ingredients in while mixing them with fruits to make them taste good and giving them colorful packaging to entice the kids when they pick them out. This one is a mainstay in our house."

Earth's Best is another organic baby food company with a stringent focus on ingredients. Each jar is checked for safety before being sent out, giving parents peace of mind. Their safety viewpoint has pushed them well above their competitors, showing that they care about their customers. Their safety viewpoint has pushed them well above their competitors, showing that they care about their customers.

Katy M. on Viewpoints said, "The regulations for chemicals used on fruit and vegetables intended for baby food are more strict than the general market for produce, but it still gives them the comfort of mind to buy organic when they are giving their baby their first foods. "

Lastly, Based in Florida, Buy Buy Baby specializes in all baby needs, not just food. This has created a rather limited stock, but also led to an environment with a high focus on customer service. The convenience of buying food, bottles, and other items all together brings it well above most other multi-faceted companies.

Rajibul I. on Site Jabber said, "I am fully satisfied with the quality of the product. Unbelievable. It is a great value for my money. I really had a great experience."

The preceding five companies were the top five rated baby food online retailers at the conclusion of National Press Distribution's multi-year study. Any questions about the methodology used to compile this list or companies that scored lower should be addresses to NPD.
