The Directory of US Immigration Lawyers is a recently-launched directory that lists all of the immigration lawyers in the country that are available to help with green card applications, deportation, visa, business, and other issues relating to people entering the country. While the directory is still new, a substantial number of immigration lawyers have already been listed.

S. Summers, a representative for the directory, says: "This directory would be helpful to those who are immigrants to the United States, or those who are facing deportation or any legal problem with regards to immigration. There are so many rules and regulations covered by immigration law that it can be tough to manage any issues that come your way without the help of a lawyer. This is where our directory can be of assistance because it can be used to find an immigration lawyer in your state."

The website has also launched an easy call back function. Here, people who are in need of legal assistance on immigration, can simply enter their details and a short description of the problem they are facing, should they choose to include that, and an appropriate representative will contact them as soon as possible. Ms. Summers adds: "It's easy to find a professional to work with you. Call or fill out the form on the page and we'll have a lawyer call you back."

Furthermore, the directory website provides people with relevant information on immigration laws and issues. They have already added a number of informative blog posts on a number of topics, such as the Trump Administration and his stance on immigration, as well as the national response; and also on other recent news in relation to immigration.

The Directory of US Immigration Lawyers is also keen to inform people how important it is for them to find a good lawyer to represent them. S. Summers points out: "Statistics show that in 2012, there were 2,443,984 ineligible immigration and non-immigration visa applications. But the good news is that 964,578 of those applications got approved later on. This is where the importance of choosing a competent immigration legal counsel comes into play."
