August 01, 2017 -
Gross & Schuster, P.A., a law firm in Pensacola, FL, is committed to offering people the opportunity to have legal representation in case of an accident or injury. They offer free consultations to those who need a Pensacola personal injury lawyer and charge no fee if there is no recovery. They have now announced that they have added a live chat function to their website as a way to make contacting them much easier than before.

Terrence A. Gross, co-owner and founder of Gross & Schuster, P.A., says: "For us, it is all about making sure that people are able to get the legal help that they need. We understand that, for some people, it simply isn't possible to come into our office. They may live too far away, or they may be on bed rest as a result of their injury or accident. That is why we have added the live chat facility and we're very happy to see that people have already started to use it."

For those who need a Pensacola accident attorney, the firm has set itself apart as one of the best in the region. They have handled a variety of cases, representing people from various walks of life, who have experienced a range of accidents and injuries. Their success rate has been impressive, earning them a 10/10 rating on Avvo. Melissa, for instance, says on Avvo.com: "After my accident, the last thing I wanted to do deal with was an attorney who would be looking to make a quick dollar off my pain and suffering. Fortunately for me we found Mr. Gross. He helped from start to finish and when I needed to speak with someone about my case the staff was always available. I never once felt like just another means to a paycheck for the firm."

For Gross & Schuster, PA, their aim is to offer people fair legal representation and to assist in creating a positive outcome for clients. The firm has represented people in different cases, ranging from slips and falls to wrongful deaths, always dedicating the same amount of attention to each case.
