San Diego, California - FunGig is a new company that connects people searching for fun things to do in San Diego with in-the-know people looking to share their passion. A ?Funseeker? purchases a FunGig which pairs them with the more knowledgeable ?Funbassador.? Founder Steve Young recently explains what he thinks makes a good FunGig.

According to Mr. Young, Funbassadors posting a FunGig should be offering a worthwhile, in-person activity. This could mean sharing a hobby, participating in a sports activity, or any other hands-on activity that can be shared. The Funbassador does not necessarily need to be an expert, just have a little more knowledge of the subject or activity than the Funseeker and be willing to share their experience, access, and time with another while charging a nominal fee.

Mr. Young says everyone?s idea of fun is different so an activity like rebuilding the engine of a ?57 Chevy may not appeal to all Funseekers, but it is a worthwhile activity that some people will consider to be of great value. Others may want to have some private painting lessons in the comfort of their own home and purchase a FunGig that offers this experience.

Overall, the most important quality of a good FunGig is that it is an in-person experience that is worthwhile and of value to the Funseeker. Mr. Young notes that Facebook Groups and Meet Up offer ways for people to connect over shared interests, but FunGig differs by offering shared experiences that only require two people, the Funbassador and the Funseeker.

FunGig believes that life is for living, not passively sitting around staring at a screen. Visit www.fungig.com to sign up as a Funseeker to find great things to do in San Diego or as a Funbassador to share a skill while earning some extra spending money.
