August 16, 2017 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Wireless Me, a newly launched company in Valley Cottage, NY, has announced that they are ready to serve the public. Their company's website at <http://wireless-me.com/> has also gone live, enabling people to purchase their Bluetooth wireless sport headphones and any other products the company has developed. The company aims to enable people to get the most of their workout by being able to listen to empowering music in an unrestricted manner.

John Kennedy from Wireless Me says: "As engineers we were fed up with recognized brands charging highly inflated prices for middle of the road technology. We were able to produce higher quality sound using low end components. Thus, we have decided to give the end user higher end components and charge a fraction of the price charged by the bigger brands. If you like great sound but are reluctant to pay for the high price asked for by the well-known brands, then you need to give us a try."

The headphones that Wireless Me is offering are assured to use superior technology. Full details are listed at <http://wireless-me.com/who>, including the philosophy of the company as a whole and how they came to develop the product. The headphones can be paired to two phones, have a 10 meter Bluetooth range, come with CVC noise cancelling, enable hands-free talking, have a built-in microphone, and deliver HD stereo sound thanks to the Bluetooth 4.1 technology. In fact, these have been found to meet the Wireless Gold Standard.

The company has only recently opened its doors, but they have already received some positive reviews, including one on their website from Debbie G.: "My husband was hesitant to try dual ear wireless headphones... But he loves them. He's an obstacle racer and trains by running in the mountains and does all kinds of crazy workouts by flipping tractor tires, pulling weights, chucking concrete and throwing spears around. The wireless headphones stay in his ears no matter what kind of masochistic workout he dreams up. He said the sound is amazing. Looks like his workouts just got longer."

People are also encouraged to like Wireless Me's Facebook page at <https://www.facebook.com/Wireless-Me-101170557258797/>. In so doing, they can ask questions about the product, while also being the first to know about any new developments.

Wireless Me

Wireless Me was formed by electronics engineers tired of big brands over charging for middle of the road technology. We use premium chips, electronic interfaces, and programming, to produce a top end of the market sound at a much lower price.
