Newport Beach, California - Many people make appointments at their Newport Beach dermatology office for Botox hoping to appear younger, but a common question they face is when is the appropriate age to consider beginning the treatment. Dr. Stefani Kappel has fielded this question frequently, so she decided to address the question in her most recent blog post.

The dermatologist in Newport Beach realizes that it can be hard to find professional advice regarding cosmetic surgery, and many of her patients end up only considering the advice of friends. Dr. Kappel regularly uses her blog to answer common questions she hears from her patients in order to help them make an informed decision.

She notes that most of her clients who seek Botox treatment are over forty, but more and more frequently younger patients are requesting the service. While she believes any decision regarding cosmetic procedures is ultimately a personal decision done by each individual she did want to offer some useful advice on what to expect from a Botox treatment and the advantages and disadvantages of beginning at a younger age.

Patients and interested readers can visit Dr. Kappel's blog to get information about a variety of cosmetic procedures.

Dr. Kappel offers a variety of cosmetic procedures from facial rejuvenation and Botox to lip injections in Newport Beach. For more information about skincare and cosmetic surgery in Newport Beach, or to set up a consultation or schedule an appointment, call (949)239-0494.
