Blue Diamond Remodeling Inc. in Round Rock, Texas has announced major changes in their business. The home remodeling contractor has recently stated that not only have they changed ownership recently, but they have also changed location. Maxwell Rucker, the new owner of Blue Diamond Remodeling has moved the company's office to 1151 Provident Ln STE A in Round Rock, Texas. The company has also revealed that they have received a five star review, which can be viewed on YouTube at <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Gd2iCiqXCz4>.

Rucker has recently stated that, "Not only have we changed our office location to a more convenient site, we are also having our main website redesigned and the new site will be available soon."

The company has revealed that part of the new management strategy is changing things that they feel will enhance the company and how it can serve its customers. The newly redesigned website will be easier for customers to navigate and offer specific information about Blue Diamond Remodeling and the specific remodeling services that they offer.

Meanwhile, in a recently published story titled, "Round Rock Bathroom Remodeling Contractor Receives Rave Review", Rucker has stated that great feedback is what the company is aiming for. He says that without such feedback from customers, their business would not have gotten as far as it had and urges those who are satisfied with their service to post their positive reviews online.

"It just makes sense that when someone is overjoyed with a service that they have received," says Rucker, "they are going to share that information with others. That's what we want. We want our customers to share their experiences with everyone they know."

The review can be read at <http://www.digitaljournal.com/pr/3444000> and includes additional information about the company and its new owner. Rucker says that the decision to move the location was made in order to have more room for physical growth for the company and to make it a bit more convenient for customers to find them.

Round Rock area residents can learn more about the company by visiting them on their website when it finally gets relaunched or by calling (512) 371-1888.
