Vineyard Ridge is a new community with land for sale just outside historic Fredericksburg, Texas. Price Keever, sales manager for the new community, has recently announced that there are a number of properties that are currently for sale and that these are among the best home sites available in the area.

"This gorgeous community is located just 15 minutes outside of historic Fredericksburg, Texas and just over an hour from the music-driven city of Austin and San Antonio," says Keever. "Vineyard Ridge offers some of the prettiest and most desirable 2 to 10-acre home sites in the area."

Keever points out that the community is close to the top-rated Hill Country destination, which offers a number of amenities and cultural activities. Fredericksburg is just over an hour from Austin and San Antonio and is rich in history, offering everything from world renowned restaurants to nightlife and various country fairs and other events.

"There is definitely something to see when you're in Fredericksburg," says Keever. "And this new community at Vineyard Ridge is within walking distance of so many wonderfully historical sites. Plus, you're in the heart of Texas, and close to just about anything that you would want to see or do. It really is a prime location."

Keever says that in addition to the restaurants and shops, the area is rich in vineyards and wineries as well as museums and other activities that are suited for those of all ages. Interested individuals who would like to learn more about the properties that are available can contact the sales office and speak with a representative.

Keever adds that there are numerous properties currently for sale and says that each and every one of them would make a wonderful home place. Building sites can be seen by visiting Vineyard Ridge online and taking a look at the gallery of pictures that are available.

The company also says that anyone interested in learning more about the properties or the amenities in the area can view their Facebook page, where they can also interact with others who are considering property purchases and building in the area.
