Barbary Trading, the San Francisco, CA based men's grooming company is happy to announce the launch of its new men's facial cleanser containing activated charcoal. The product can be purchased at their Amazon storefront.

According to their spokesperson Brian Bettencourt, "As a company committed to creating natural grooming products for men, we are proud to present our latest collection which centers around providing innovative solutions for skin problems faced by men in their daily lives."

The key ingredient of the face wash is activated charcoal. Already renowned for its cleaning properties, it zaps up excess oil and sweat, lifting impurities from the skin and deep cleansing the pores to keep acne at bay. The all-natural formula also helps with treating redness of skin and has a rejuvenating scent that brings instant freshness.

Perfectly suited for men, this charcoal facial cleanser blends together healthy ingredients such as Coconut Oil, Vitamin C, Vitamin B5, Green Tea, Rooibos Tea, White Tea, Orange Peel, and Tapioca. Additionally, this made in USA product is both gluten as well as cruelty-free, with no testing being done on animals.

Barbary Trading prides itself in creating one of a kind beauty products that are both affordable as well as nature-friendly. All of their ingredients are vegan and sourced from sustainable resources. Each product is handcrafted in small quantities to ensure that quality standards are maintained throughout. Apart from facial cleansers, they also have products such as a men's moisturizing lotion as well as a men's body lotion.

This product is already proving to be a huge hit with the customers on Amazon with one buyer stating, "I bought this for my husband because he kept using my face wash, and he loves it! He has pretty oily skin, and this product definitely makes his face softer and not as oily. He said his face feels really clean since using it." To find out more about the product, visit Barbary Trading's official Amazon storefront.
