Tony Wilson, spokesperson for the company Nicola Di Lucca Beauty, has announced that their product, Cellulite Massager, will be relaunched within 7 to 14 days. The announcement was a result from the product being sold out due to its huge popularity

The company stated that the Cellulite Massager from Nicola Di Lucca is able to remove cellulite from the thighs, buttocks and arms while also acting as an exfoliant and skin toner. Through massaging, the device is able to break up fatty deposits and stimulate lymph. It also affects the subcutaneous tissue where the excess fat is stored. Nicola Di Lucca Beauty said that when the fat is softened and breaks up, waste products and toxins that have been held in the subcutaneous tissue gets released. At this point, the lymph system eliminates the toxins and waste products, thus resulting in an improvement in appearance of the skin. Tony Wilson added that the skin actually begins to look more radiant, smoother and firmer.

During its initial release, the product gained a lot of popularity and sold-out very quickly. Tony stated that the relaunch will come with the same bonuses that were available in the initial launch: when customers buy the cellulite massager, they will receive a downloadable instruction video, and the company will also be providing them with a companion e-book that gives insight into cellulite. The book will also provide tips and techniques to help customers control their cellulite. To get an overview of how the cellulite massager works, the company urges all interested parties to visit the following URL: https://youtu.be/-Jlma_Sfbf0 Here, they will be directed to a YouTube video which gives a brief explanation of how the cellulite massager works, and also explains the bonuses that customers will receive once they purchase the device.

When asked where people will be able to buy the cellulite massager from Nicola Di Lucca Beauty, Tony Wilson gave the following statement,

"The Cellulite Massager will be sold exclusively on Amazon. The reason why we have taken this decision is because of the excellent fulfillment service that Amazon provides. When customers buy from Amazon, they know who they are dealing with. There is a lot of trust in the company, and we feel that the high quality product like our cellulite massager deserves to have this type of environment. Customers also deserve to get the highest quality service when buying this product."
