

Markus Trades His Account Live on Coffee with Markus

September 04, 2017 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

After the three day boot camp in Singapore, Markus Heitkoetter, the CEO and Founder of Rockwell Trading, came back on Coffee with Markus. Like every day, Markus is so excited, energetic and optimistic to make more and more money from trading. Markus started looking at indices, including e-mini S&P, e-mini NASDAQ and the Dollar index.

Actually, all the indices were showing negative trends and were trading lower from the latest closing. Markus attributed it to growing tensions in North Korea and Hurricane in Houston for the downside in indices.

However, safe haven assets including gold, bonds and the Japanese Yen was trading higher. Safe haven assets always have a negative correlation with the U.S. dollar, political instability and the negative trends in the stock market.

Markus always loves to share his views on crude oil and gasoline markets. He thinks crude oil and gasoline had an excellent session yesterday for day traders. Gasoline prices soared massively over 7% on Tuesday's trade, while oil dipped slightly. Mark, the co host of Coffee with Markus, had exceptionally predicted that trend in the morning show.

Looking at plenty of trading opportunities, Markus decided to get help from Rockwell's PowerX Analyzer software. He ran the scanner to narrow down the trading opportunities. After scanning, PowerX Analyzer came up with five best trading opportunities to invest in. AIMT was the first stock on the list and Markus has traded AIMT several times before, as it is the best stock to trade considering the risk-reward ratio of 1 to 4.

He then closely looked at the trading opportunities in other four stocks. He also showed the stock ?VAC? that he discussed a lot last weekend in the boot camp. He decided to take a position in VAC at 114.12 and AIMT at 21.49. Markus also compared PGNX with XENT and decided to go with XENT, thanks to higher WIN percentage and a better Risk-Reward ratio.
