August 31, 2017

August 31, 2017 -
Big Sky Products LLC in Fort Myers, Florida has announced the launch of their new collection of travel wipes, available in a pack of 20 individually sealed wipes. These natural cleaning products can be purchased from their Amazon storefront.

The company states that their wipes are pre-moistened and have an anti-bacterial property that kills germs before they have the chance to make consumers sick, particularly when clean water is not available for hand washing. These are especially effective for carrying during one's travels and can double up as a safe cleaner for technology products.

According to Andrew Ried, a spokesperson for Big Sky Products, "We at Big Sky Products believe in building useful products at affordable prices. Our Awesome Wipes multi-purpose cleaning wipes that can disinfect multiple surfaces including glasses, phones, tablets etc."

Awesome Wipes are easily transportable for cleaning on the go. The wipes have been individually packed to make them compact enough to fit into a pocket, handbag or briefcase. The moisture content in these anti-bacterial wipes is low, making them safe to use on electronic devices in vehicles. Furthermore, these packs are resealable thus ensuring that the wipes don't dry out before use.

Adds Reid, "These wipes can be used in public places where devices usually pick up a lot of germs. This includes airports, trains, buses as well as railway stations. By using these wipes, one can be sure to stay protected from all kinds of harmful bacterias and germs."

These wipes have been specially formulated to make electronic products shine without any streaking. They're lint-free, anti-static and fast-drying and can clean products without causing any damage. Additionally, these wipes are infused with a lemon extract that leaves a wonderful, fresh smell after every use. Those interested in learning more about the wipes and their benefits can visit the company on their official website or see the wipes on the Amazon marketplace.
