

Martelli Enterprises Designs Crayon Sewing Project in Honor of National Sewing Month

September 01, 2017

September 01, 2017 -
Pensacola, Fla. ? To celebrate National Sewing Month, Martelli Enterprises, a sewing company in Pensacola, is going above and beyond to spark a charitable movement in the community.

September is National Sewing Month. The team at Martelli Enterprises is excited for the upcoming days but wants to do a little extra for the holiday. In light of the occasion, Martelli Enterprises has designed a charity-based crayon sewing project for Northwest Florida?s eager and motivated sewing community.

The crayon sewing project was created with the idea of happiness in mind. Knowing that there are many kids in the area in need of more fun, Martelli Enterprises has tasked project participants to create Crayola crayon roll-up cases using a set of detailed instructions.

At the end of September, Martelli Enterprises will be donating the roll-up cases along with Crayola crayons provided by the company to the local Ronald McDonald House and the FavorHouse of Northwest Florida. Just seeing the smiles on the kid?s faces when they receive the creative cases will be clear indication that it was worth the work for the Martelli team.

If interested in participating in Martelli Enterprises? crayon sewing project, please visit www.martellinotions.com/september-charity for downloadable instructions. Please send roll-up cases, name, and shipping address with an attached heartfelt note or picture to Martelli Enterprises at 5420 North W St., Pensacola, FL 32505 by September 22. Participants who submit their roll-up cases before the deadline will receive a free two-pack of blades.
