June 26, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Rapid Crush, Inc., a business in Valencia, CA, recently launched a new "Product Creation Secrets" product through their website. Essentially, it will teach people how to create informative products in a very short period of time, allowing them to make money very quickly. It is hoped that this product will allow more people to become successful online entrepreneurs.

"We will teach people how to create high quality info products in two hours or less", says John S. Rhodes from Rapid Crush Inc. "Best of all, they don't need any prior experience or proof to do it. We have provided a completely free report to help people get started."

The brains behind the report itself is Jason Fladlien, a highly successful online marketer. His training is provided completely free of charge, which is one of the things that truly sets him apart. Indeed, through his personal website, people can access as many as 32 individual reports for free, each of which is designed to help them become more successful online.

Fladlien also runs a Facebook page, through which he provides advice, information and guidance to interested people. He uses this to communicate directly with prospective and successful online entrepreneurs. As such, he has effectively started a learning community where information is shared freely between different members, something that has been greatly appreciated by his followers.

It is said that his latest report is the most effective way for people to earn a lot of money online very quickly. To emphasize this, and to provide even further information, Jason Fladlien has also started a private Skype Group, where people can come to him for further information and questions. This is, once again, a learning community where information can be shared freely. Indeed, he wants people to learn from his own personal learning curve, rather than having to repeat his own path.

"For months I knew I had a killer information product in me", says Jason Fladlien. "See, I had written articles for clients in under 7 minutes several times. And I had some other article marketing techniques I discovered that were effective as well. I am astounded at the quality of copy I can write, and how little time it takes me. Not only can I create excellent PDFs, but I now create video courses as well. Money flows pretty freely to me these days. Enough of it that I can now focus on making my music again."

Fladlien is not living the dream, he is living his own dream. He has made it to where he is today through many trials and tribulations. What he wants to achieve is to make other people reach the same point, without having to go through all the difficulties. Hence, he wants to share his product creation secrets with the world.
