

Popular Lifting Belt Now Available On Amazon Germany

September 21, 2017

September 21, 2017 -
Rip Toned Fitness, a Las Vegas, Nevada based company, has announced that their popular lifting belt is now available in Germany. The company had recently launched its fitness product onto the United States based Amazon site, and since its initial launch, the belt has become very popular, which has prompted the company to now offer it to Amazon customers in Germany, Austria, Switzerland, Liechtenstein and Luxembourg via the Amazon Germany site.

Meanwhile, Mark Pasay, a representative for Rip Toned Fitness says, "Not using a weightlifting belt correctly can be just as risky as not using one at all. Numerous injuries are reported every year by weightlifters who strain their backs and other areas and some of those injuries can be quite serious."

Pasay explains, "It is therefore essential that we do not just offer a great quality lifting belt. We also give you helpful web content and video tutorials so that you can be sure that you are using the belt properly. You can literally damage yourself for life if you are not careful. That is one of the main reasons that we have created these products; to help lifters to gain more benefit from their workouts and to help them avoid injuries that could be detrimental to their future lifting."

Pasay says that the weightlifting belt, along with the company's lifting wrist wraps, became almost instant hits on the Amazon marketplace in the United States. Since they were first launched, both products have gained massive popularity and have been given a number of positive reviews on the Amazon marketplace. The company states that it was this popularity that urged them to release these products in other countries. They state that those who are interested in Germany can now order the belt on Amazon.de.

Pasay says that the company simply wants to help weightlifters to get where they want to be with regards to their lifting and they want to help them to ensure that they are safe and protected from injury while doing so. The company states that they plan to continue to release their current products to additional countries and that they will release future products on the Amazon marketplace in the United States and other countries as well.
