Las Vegas, NV company Rip Toned Fitness is known for its top notch fitness products. Recently, they have been expanding their market, offering their products across Europe and now also in Canada. They are proud to announce that the popular Rip Toned knee sleeves are now available in Canada as well.

Rip Toned Fitness' Mark Pasay says: "You only get 2 knees so you better take care of them and make them last. Whether your knees are perfect or a little worse for wear, now is the time to show them some love. The Rip Toned knee sleeve works both as a preventative measure by helping to protect your knees during activity and also as assistance in promoting healing and recovery of an existing injury. We're very pleased to offer this sleeve to the Canadian market as well."

Besides offering high quality products, the company is also committed to enhancing their customers' fitness experience in other ways. Thus, they also regularly deliver web content to explain how their products work, and also to discuss different workouts and more. Furthermore, Rip Toned Fitness has released a number of

YouTube tutorial videos showing their products in action.

The knee sleeve has proven to be one of the company's most popular products, which is why it was an obvious item to offer to the Canadian market. Steve, for instance, says on the company's website: "I just received this knee supports 2 days ago and I would like to state that this is probably one of the best knee sleeves I have ever set my hands on. It is made out of high quality materials and feels extremely durable and comfortable around my knees. I purchased a size large but they are just slightly large on my knees and I would have to get a size medium next time. I am really happy with this product and I can say honestly that Rip Toned is a great and stand up company."

The knee sleeve is now available through . All Rip Toned Fitness products come with a lifetime warranty, as the company is 100% committed to the quality of the products.
