

EverGreensStore Baby Thermometer Makes Waves As Gift Idea

June 24, 2015

June 24, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

EverGreensStore has announced that their highly accurate baby thermometer is making waves as a baby gift for showers and birthdays. The product is described by the company as being reliable and versatile, with two separate functions for measuring both ear and forehead. Although the baby thermometer is promoted as a device for the safety and health of infants and children, it also holds a number of other uses, including the checking of warmed milk in bottles, and the temperature of bath water before it touches baby's sensitive skin. EverGreensStore says:

"The clinically proven methods - Ear and Forehead - are better tolerated and more accurate than rectal thermometers."

EverGreensStore currently offers a 45% discount and their fast and accurate temporal thermometer is now priced at $27.39. Those consumers who order today will also reportedly receive a free E-book entitled, "A Smart'er' Child." The book is meant to offer parents some insight into small things they can do which will make a huge impact to their baby's brain growth and development. They have said the following regarding the use of the thermometer for parents who wish to give their child the best possible care:

"Our Thermometer is designed to give you peace of mind, in this already stressful situation, by giving you fast one second readings in the most comfortable way!"

Since the release of the baby thermometer EverGreensStore has suggested that sales have been high, particularly for gift giving. The high reviews visible through the company's sales channels may be the cause of this influx in gifting of the device. Ever Green believes that due to the dependability and convenience of the device, it has been targeted as a great gift for new moms and dads.

The company encourages interested buyers to visit their website. Customers who click here will be able to view videos, see photos, read facts about the thermometer, and visit the company's various social media platform for more customer interaction and promotional offers. This is also the best link to use to view previous consumer thoughts and reviews on the product, which currently seem to hold a highly positive ranking among buyers.

The thermometer offers an auto shut off function for retention of battery life, has a large LCD screen with a backlight display for use at night when children may be asleep, and it is said to be constructed of high quality Copper-Nickel alloy for higher levels of accuracy, and for the safety of babies. The company has stated that they are so confident in this product and the health and safety it provides to customers, that they are backing it with a 6 month warranty. They added that customer satisfaction is always their top priority.
