Rip Toned Fitness is a company in Las Vegas, NV, that has gained tremendous popularity across this country for its high quality fitness products. They have recently started to expand into international markets, including the United Kingdom, mainland Europe, and Canada. They have now announced that the popular Rip Toned knee sleeves are now also available in Italy.

"Italy is a nation in which people are committed to being fit and healthy," says Mark Pasay, spokesperson for Rip Toned Fitness' international expansion. "It was a clear market for us to start to offer our products on, and we're very happy to see that they are being well-received."

The various products from Rip Toned Fitness have all received best selling status in this country. They have also been ranked as #1 by various independent fitness websites, magazines, and other experts. The company is clearly committed to helping people live a healthy lifestyle in which fitness is incorporated. This is evident, as well, from the regular content and how-to video tutorials that they have released, which can all be accessed for free. Pasay adds: "We want people to not just get the most out of our products, but to get the most out of their entire fitness regimen. Hence, we are creating content to educate and inform across the board as well."

While the knee sleeves have only recently become available on Amazon Italy, they have already received numerous positive reviews. The Rip Toned Fitness brand is known the world over, and people and Italy have clearly been waiting for their chance to get their hands on some of the products. Pasay adds: "The products that we have made available in Italy so far have started selling immediately. Naturally, we offer the same level of customer service, including the lifetime warranty, as what we offer here, and it seems that this is something people truly appreciate as well."

Besides the knee sleeves, Rip Toned Fitness has also made their lifting straps and wrist wraps available on Amazon.it. It is expected that further products will be added soon. These include elbow sleeves, lifting belts, and more.
