

Auto, Car Seat Protectors For Baby Car Seats From Freddie And Sebbie Receives Over 250 Positive Reviews

June 24, 2015

June 24, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Neil Speight, co-director of the company Freddie and Sebbie, announced that their Car Seat Protector sold on Amazon has received over 250 positive reviews. For those who are interested in reading the Car Seat Protector Reviews, please visit the company's Amazon storefront.

Neil stated that they are grateful for all the positive feedback they received from their customers and attributes it to the high quality craftsmanship of the product and the excellent fulfillment efforts provided by Amazon. He added that the company's main priority is to provide their customers with a great shopping experience when buying their high quality product.

The following car seat protector review is an example of the positive feedback the company has been receiving on their product,

"The Freddie and Sebbie Car Seat Protector is a superb idea! Made of polyester and easy to clean. Just use soap and water and dry. You can remove the car seat protector and clean outside of the car, or clean while in the car. Your choice, whichever is easiest. There is a non-skid material on the back of the car seat protector that clings to the seat. It does not slip and is easy to install. There are slits on the side for the seat belts...How wonderful to have these car seat protectors in the back of your car to help protect your car seats from all types of animals. They are also useful if you need to put groceries or other products in the backseat, any spill can quickly be taken care of"

The company stated that some of the popular features that seem to be a big hit with the customers is that their Car Seat Protectors can fit in most vehicles without any problem, have a durable fabric, contain anti-slipping rubber on all corners, and are child friendly and easy to clean. The company added that for those who are interested in reading the full list of features available on their product can go to their Amazon storefront.

When Freddie and Sebbie designed their Car Seat Protector, they said their goal was to make an effective product that is also easy to install in any vehicle. Durability was an important factor too, because if the product was going to protect the owners car seats, it would need to hold its own as well. Parents will usually put their baby seats on it, children will be wriggling around on it, and sometimes heavy objects are placed on the car seat protector as well, so it has to withstand all of this while doing its job.

With the amount of positive reviews that the company has received on their product, Neil Speight said that Freddie and Sebbie has met those basic requirements. He added that this doesn't mean that they can sit back and relax, because taking care of their customers is an ongoing task.
