

Dr. Daniel Kaufman Discusses the Increase in Men Having Cosmetic Procedures His New Blog

October 12, 2017

October 12, 2017 -
New York, New York - Dr. Kaufman of Discreet Plastic Surgery explains that the myth that plastic surgery is only for women is currently being dispelled. He has noticed that many of his patients looking to regain their youth through plastic surgery are men and decided to write a new blog discussing the phenomenon.

According to Dr. Kaufman, there is now much less of a social stigma surrounding men having cosmetic procedures. This is one of the reasons he offers for the increase of men coming to his office. He says that he hopes if the readers of his blog realize this, they may be more likely to opt for a procedure that could boost their self-esteem.

The purpose of Dr. Kaufman?s blog is to educate his readers and prospective patients about cosmetic surgery. This includes the fact that it is increasingly common for men to opt for surgery in an attempt to turn back the clock.

More information about a variety of cosmetic procedures can be found on the blog at www.discreetplasticsurgery.com. Those considering cosmetic surgery in Manhattan, can schedule an appointment with Dr. Daniel Kaufman to get setup with a tailored treatment plan.
