

Dr. Kappel Explains the Difference between Botox and Dermal Fillers in Her New Blog

October 12, 2017

October 12, 2017 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Newport Beach, California - Stefani T. Kappel, M.D. discussed the differences between two of the most popular facial rejuvenation treatments, dermal fillers and Botox. She explained that while many patients are familiar with the terms, they are not always sure of what makes each treatment unique.

The dermatologist explains to readers that while both treatments are meant to treat wrinkles and other signs of aging, they are typically used to target different parts of the face and use different substances to do so. Dr. Kappel hopes that knowing the differences between Botox and dermal fillers before heading to the office will help patients decide which treatment is most in line with their goals.

Dr. Kappel uses her blog at www.stefanikappelmd.com to educate her readers about current trends in dermatology and cosmetic surgery.
