November 01, 2017 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Roy Wingate Lawyer Consultants, a business in Odessa, TX, is proud to announce the addition of three new personal injury lawyer videos on their YouTube channel. As shown on the website at <https://roywingatelawyerconsultants.com/>, they are committed to creating street credibility and authority for different specialized niches. Essentially, the consultancy agency creates optimized, high ranking websites, which can then be rented by clients. The new videos are an essential element of this, supporting video marketing in particular.

Roy Wingate himself says: "What we do is help our clients place themselves in front of people who have the characteristics of becoming their clients. We focus on targeted visibility, which means relevant, targeted leads. We call this 'street credibility', which is based not on volume of leads, but on quality of leads and exposure to the right people at the right time. Video marketing is a key element of this, and we're very happy with the work that has been done with the three YouTube videos so far."

The three videos focus on specific niches that the consultancy agency is targeting. They can be viewed on their YouTube channel at <https://www.youtube.com/channel/UCXWgGvQPgtemOdMx4lv6yyQ/about>. The first video discusses personal injury lawyer website rentals. The second video focuses on more specific legal issues, such as mesothelioma, asbestos, medical malpractice, prescription drugs, workplace illness, and personal injury. The final video focuses on vehicular personal injuries, specifically those sustained through trucks, automobiles, cars, and motorcycles. It can also be applied to work in oil fields and to semi-accidents.

"Each of our videos is ready to go," adds Roy Wingate. "As you can see, they have already been viewed several times, and that is before anyone has rented them. This is the type of exposure we can generate, almost instantly."

To date, the company has created 15 different videos. Some of those are designed to explain their methods of working, whereas others are available for rental, allowing clients to get the targeted leads that they need. Roy Wingate explains: "Our system is unique and it works. No longer do you have to spend countless hours and dollars optimizing a website. We already have that covered for you."
