November 06, 2017 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Zoe Paws is a pet supply company in Austin, TX, that aims to improve the health of dogs all over the country through its products. They have now released a quality dog glucosamine product, which is currently available on Amazon. Its primary purpose is to decrease hip and joint pain and enhance the dog's mobility.

"Our goal is to help dogs enjoy a happy and healthy life," says Joe Jarrett from Zoe Paws. "Glucosamine is an essential part of a dog's diet, helping to protect the joints and other parts of the body and anatomy as well. What sets our product apart, however, is that we have only used ingredients that are safe even for human consumption. While we don't suggest that humans start taking the supplement, it would be perfectly safe to do so."

The dog glucosamine chondroitin MSM chews are designed to support a dog's hips and joints in particular. As such, they are of particular importance to large dog breeds, including popular breeds such as the Labrador. Jarrett adds: "Labradors are known to suffer from joint and hip problems, which is mainly due to over-breeding. Our supplements can make them more comfortable, while also helping them remain active for longer."

A lot of dog products, including foods, have come under fire recently for their poor quality. Many foods include meat that came from dead, dying, diseased, or disabled (the 4Ds) animals. In fact, there have even been reports of dog food containing meat from other dogs that have been euthanized for whatever reason. Joe Jarrett adds: "While people have the opportunity to purchase higher quality foods that do not include the 4Ds, the nutritional value of dog food is poor to say the least. Hence, people need to supplement their trusted companions' diet if they want them to live a happy, healthy life."

Since launching on Amazon, the product has already ranked as the best dog glucosamine product. It is made in the USA from only natural ingredients. Furthermore, it is free from gluten, dairy, soy, corn, sugar, and salt. Jarrett says: "It provides the maximum daily requirement for antioxidants and prevents inflammation. It really is the perfect treat: tasty as well as good for your dog's health."
