Denver, Colo. ? As a leading agency for staffing in Denver, CO, it is an ultimate priority for Express Employment Professionals to ensure that its workers are in good hands in the event of an emergency. In recent months, America has experienced just that.

Upending hurricanes, devastating forest fires, and terrible mass shootings have plagued the surface of America for what seems like months on end now. The Express team in Denver is deeply worried about the people impacted by recent events, sending thoughts and prayers to those affected.

Express Denver Franchise Owner Sharon Hendricks said, ?In the recent past, we as a country have experienced great loss. We have gone through fires, floods, hurricanes, and now a mass shooting. It is in our adversity that we have learned to come together, putting away our differences and seeing just people.?

Currently at 2.1 percent unemployment, Denver is wonderful city with incredible job opportunities. Even though the country is in a state of distress, there are still great opportunities to be had in the communities that build the foundation of America. The supplier of resources for jobs in Denver, CO, believes that in due time, things will start looking up again.

?Today we just want you to know that here at Express, we are praying for our country,? Hendricks said. ?We ask that you pray with us and God bless America.?
