November 17, 2017 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Acclaim Law Group, based in San Diego, CA, is proud to announce that they now offer the ability to schedule a free initial consultation through their website. In so doing, they have made it easier than ever for people to book an appointment with the law firm. The new functionality is already proving to be popular.

Brett Geruntino from Acclaim Law Group says: "Like most law firms, we have long offered a free initial consultation. This is a chance for people to discuss their case with us, and for us to determine what we can do for them. We have now made this much easier by making it possible for people to book this consultation online through our website."

As shown on the firm's website at <http://acclaimlaw.com/>, they encourage anyone who has been involved in a personal injury situation to contact them for this free consultation. It is quite common for insurance companies to make a settlement offer after an accident, which many people will accept out of convenience. However, this may not be the best offer at all. Brett Geruntino explains: "In many cases, the insurance company will contact you right away in an attempt to reach a quick settlement. They may even tell you that they are willing to pay for your medical expenses. However, what's not said is that they end up paying only the expenses that they see as reasonable and necessary."

Acclaim Law Group deals with automobile accidents, motorcycle accidents, bicycle and pedestrian accidents, falls due to dangerous conditions, dog bites, and wrongful death cases. They have earned a solid reputation of being the go-to legal advisor for all accident-related cases. Charles, for instance, says on Avvo: "I was in an accident and messed up my back. The insurance company was playing games by telling me that they were going to pay for my medical treatment, but then tried to tell me I got too much treatment. Brett really helped me out. He got my bills paid and money in my pocket for what I had to go through."
