Atlanta, GA - November 2017 - Anthony Wimpey Plumbing announces the opening of a second Metro Atlanta location. In addition to their main location where they have been meeting the plumbing needs of local families and businesses in Conyers, Covington, Lithonia, Loganville, Madison, Monroe, Oxford, Social Circle, Winder and the surrounding area for more than 30 years, the family-owned plumbing company is extending its reach to serve the plumbing needs of communities in Buford, Duluth, Johns Creek, Lawrenceville, Lilburn, Norcross, Roswell, Snellville and Suwanee.

With an emphasis on customer service and plumbing expertise, Anthony Wimpey Plumbing has operated a thriving business for more than three decades. They recognized that the growing population in Hall, Gwinnett, Walton, Morgan and Newton counties required them to step up to do even more so more families and businesses can have the opportunity to obtain the plumbing services they need.

"Our team at Anthony Wimpey Plumbing is thrilled our new location will allow us to make an even bigger difference for Metro Atlanta communities that are experiencing an increased need for professional plumbing services," said owner Anthony Wimpey.

?There?s a high demand for both plumbing expertise and attentive customer service, and our team is the best at both of those. We look forward to reaching more families and businesses in the coming months and years.?

Anthony Wimpey Plumbing services include the full-range of traditional plumbing services along with the personal touch that a family-owned business can bring. According to Anthony, customers who contact one of the two plumbing business?s locations will receive a fast response time to any call, even if it?s after business hours. ?We know when our customers are facing a plumbing emergency, it can?t always wait until the office opens,? said Anthony.

?Whether it?s the middle of the night, the weekend, or Christmas Eve, we want to make sure our customers aren?t on their own when they need plumbing help immediately; we are committed to meeting even the most urgent plumbing needs 24/7.?
