November 16, 2017 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Fort Lauderdale, FL based accessories company Ashley Bridget has announced the launch of their new line of hair tie bracelets in their Amazon storefront. With the successful run of the first variation of the hair tie cuff bracelet, the new line of jewelry is expected to be equally popular.

According to Scott Hutchison, spokesperson at Ashley Bridget, "Our first version of this bracelet was a huge success which has prompted us to launch an updated design in the market. It is clear for the entire team that the mission we set out to achieve, that of providing women with a functional and sophisticated way of carrying their hair ties, has been received well by our audiences and we cannot wait to do more updates to the design in the future.?"

Available in three colors - rose gold, gold, and silver, this skinny cuff bracelet is easy to use wherein the hair tie can be worn in the outer circumference of the bracelet for a quick and stylish way to handle an otherwise cumbersome problem. With a diameter of 2.75 inches (6.985 cm), this hair tie is suitable for the wrists of most women and can hold a small to medium hair tie at any given time without slipping off.

A great gift for both friends and loved ones, the bracelet comes wrapped in a beautiful, handcrafted box along with an original Certificate of Authenticity by the Ashley Bridget team. The product is a great representation of Ashley Bridget's brand values, with the company striving to achieve that perfect balance between creating jewelry that is both functional as well as beautiful.

With their luxurious and affordable pricing, their new launch is already proving to be a hit among buyers with one review stating, "This is such a pretty bracelet and looks great without you even knowing what it is for! I got lots of compliments on it the first day I wore it." For more information on these stackable bracelets, please visit Ashley Bridget's official Amazon store.
