Ivan Gomez, a roofing contractor in Pennsylvania for many years, has decided to expand into Miami and southern Florida with Big G Roofing & More Inc. Since 1999, Ivan has built a successful roofing business in Pennsylvania, called Gomez General Contracting. He was able to achieve success by using the best materials and providing the service that get homeowners referring them to others. Having lived in Florida for many years and having experienced helping his neighbors when their roofs got damaged by a storm and helping them get what they really deserve from insurance agencies and contractors, he has finally decided to serve the roofing needs of Miami and Southern Florida.

Ivan himself says: "I have years of experience in general contracting and I believe we should always help our fellow man if they are in need. After the recent hurricanes, it became clear that there was work for me to be done in Florida, so I decided to open Big G."

Ivan Gomez's business has an A+ rating on BBB as well as multi year Angies List Super Service Award. He is also listed as a GAF Master Elite Contractor, which just one of his many other credentials. Ivan adds: "We are an insurance specialist dealing directly with them when it comes to storm damage repair. After the latest hurricane, let us get the most value for your claim by getting us involved early in the process."

With Big G, when it comes to roofing installation Miami residents will be able to enjoy TPO Roofing Systems. TPO roofing systems have been installed in the U.S. for the last 30 years. TPO membranes are made of co-polymerized rubber that allows them greater flexibility in cold climates. Meanwhile, in warmer climates, they are highly resistant to wind and rain.

Big G. Roofing & More Inc. aims to set itself apart as one of the best roofing contractors in Miami Florida. They will ensure that residents receive only the best possible service, using the best materials and greatest craftsmanship. As the state continues to recover from the storm damage after the recent hurricanes, this type of service is proving to be invaluable for homeowners.
