Niko Enterprises Limited is a newly launched company in Milton Keynes, United Kingdom. The company's goal is to help people achieve a greater quality of life by offering solutions to pain and discomfort resulting from muscle stiffness and joint inflammation. They have developed compression garments and other tools that help in healing, prevent injury, and provide pain relief. One way in which they have achieved this is by infusing their products with copper, of which an example is their CopperStrike copper compression gloves.

Pam Bhara from Niko Enterprises says: "We understand the importance of living an active and healthy lifestyle, but this sometimes becomes impossible for those experiencing pain and discomfort as a result of joint inflammation and muscle stiffness conditions. Don't let this beat you and take over your life and those activities you once enjoyed so much."

Infusing products with copper is a scientifically proven method to reduce joint and muscle pain. This is believed to be due to increasing mental awareness and energy. Copper Strike copper compression gloves are designed to enhance performance, speed recovery, and provide relief from injury, inflammation, and arthritis. Pam Bhara adds: "Whether you're an elite athlete, office worker, or simply an active parent or grand parent, Copper Striker's copper infused garments provide improved circulation and muscle support to make you feel great - no matter where, no matter when, and no matter what you're up to."

As part of the launch of the company and their first copper compression gloves product, they have also engaged in a significant digital marketing campaign. They have launched their website, and will be offering their products there and through the Amazon marketplace. Furthermore, they have launched their Facebook page, which they aim to use to create a community where active individuals can support each other, ask questions, and share knowledge.

"We encourage everyone to like our Facebook page," says Pam Bhara. "When we release new products, it will be listed there immediately, so you will always know what is going on. Mainly, it will provide a chance for people to tell each other about the relief they have experienced as a result of using our product, and to share any other important tips on how to be active comfortably and safely."
