Panama City, Fla.? Martin Lewis of Lewis & Jurnovoy, a leading Chapter 7 bankruptcy lawyer in Panama City, FL, was recently recognized for his achievements in the community, specifically pertaining to pro bono work.

In October, the Northern District of Florida Bankruptcy Association held its annual meeting and seminar in Tallahassee, Florida. During the meeting, Martin Lewis of Lewis & Jurnovoy, P.A. was recognized for his Pro Bono work in the Bankruptcy Court.

Martin Lewis said, "I have always enjoyed helping and counseling people having financial problems."

The debt consolidation lawyer in Panama City, FL, who has been doing pro bono work in the community for over 20 years, takes pride in going above and beyond in the community. It provides Lewis with joy and inspiration when he can assist people with legal matters that cannot afford to pay for an attorney.

"It is important as an attorney that we represent not only the clients who can afford to pay us, but also the ones with very limited financial means,? Lewis said.
