

Bike Lights Company, Night King Pro Can Now Be Found On Twitter And Facebook

June 26, 2015

June 26, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Night King Pro has announced to all their customers, and those interested in their products, that the company can also be found via Twitter and their Facebook page. The company said that their aim is to do whatever it takes to engage with their customers and potential buyers, and twitter and Facebook are great platforms to make this possible.

Phillip, who is the spokesperson for the company Night King Pro, said that excellent customer service is just as important for them as providing a high quality product. Sometimes people have questions, and the best way to get those questions answered is through engagement so that others can also view the discussion. This creates a tightknit community that provides a healthy environment where people can send feedback, both positive and negative, have their questions answered, and simply get involved.

Night King Pro is a sports and outdoors online retailer that is currently selling their LED Bike Light Set on Amazon. When designing the bicycle lights, the cyclist's safety was the main priority. The result is a front white LED light that has a wide angle of visibility so that even side road traffic can see the cyclist riding. There is also a red LED light in the rear so that oncoming traffic can see the cyclist as well. Both LED lights have been designed to shine brightly, and can also be set in three modes, which are flashing, constant and off.

The bicycle lights from Night King Pro are also rain-proof and have an O-ring sealing. In order to replace the batteries, the cyclist simply needs to unscrew the housing where the 4 lithium metal batteries are easily located. Phillip said that their company is very excited with their latest product, and they know that their customers will be too. Night King Pro is very confident with their product, and through the Amazon store, is offering a 100% no questions asked money back guarantee to any customer that is not completely happy with their bicycle lights. They also made the following statement,

"Night King Pro stands behind its products. We believe in brand loyalty - that means we are loyal to YOU. Night King Pro bike lights will not be on Amazon forever, and certainly not at the discount prices we are currently offering. So get some now!"

In order to get more details on their bike lights, they encourage all interested parties to visit their Amazon storefront. In addition, they remind customers and potential buyers to please engage with them on twitter and Facebook. Phillip said that Night King Pro wants to do everything in its power to provide their customers with the best shopping experience, and through engagement it helps them to make this possible, but on a whole new level. They also encourage all customers who buy the product to leave an honest and unbiased review on Amazon, as this helps other potential buyers to make an informed decision on whether they want to buy the bicycle lights as well.

###

For more information about Night King Pro, contact the company here: Night King ProPhillip+8615601706653contact@nightkingpro.com

Night King Pro

Night King Pro sells simple yet high quality bicycle lights for use on premium bikes

Website: <http://www.nightkingpro.com>

Email: contact@nightkingpro.com

Phone: +8615601706653

Powered by PressAdvantage.com