December 08, 2017 -

Panama City, Fla. ? As a leading provider of damage restoration in Panama City, FL, it is imperative for Disaster Response Team to keep its customers up to date on ways to keep a home safe and secure during the winter months. Recently, the company released tips on ways to prepare one?s home for any chilly issues.

Keeping a home clean is one thing. Ensuring that the home is maintained correctly is another story. Many individuals fail to realize the importance of this until it is far too late. The result ends up as a ton of costly repairs to make that could have been avoided. That?s why Disaster Response Team once again took the initiative to let its customers know about the proper way to prepare for the winter.

Tiffany said, who is the manager at Disaster Response Team, ?It?s our goal every year to keep the public informed about the many possible issues associated with cold weather and homes. Following these tips will definitely pay off in the long run for any responsible homeowner.?

From cleaning out gutters and repairing roof leaks to insulating walls or removing tree branches that could fall on a home, the tips provided by the leader of emergency response in Panama City, FL, are more than necessary to utilize as the months turn colder.

?If homeowners heed these tips, they?ll be prepared more than ever for the chilling weather ahead that affects our community?s homes every year,? Tiffany said.
