New York Plastic Surgeon Discusses the Medical Benefits of Abdominoplasty in a New Blog

December 08, 2017

December 08, 2017 -
New York, New York - Dr. Daniel Kaufman, a cosmetic surgeon at Discreet Plastic Surgery, has noticed more patients coming to him seeking an abdominoplasty for medical reasons. As a result, he recently posted a blog discussing the ways in which cosmetic procedures can improve one?s health.

Dr. Kaufman knows that a lot of people who consider cosmetic surgery have a difficult time finding reliable information on the topic, so he chooses to address this problem by writing his blog. The misconception he decided to cover this month is that liposuction or a tummy tuck is only done for superficial reasons.

In the latest blog the doctor writes that if people know that certain cosmetic procedures can be done for medical reasons and have their doctor sign off on them, there is a chance that the surgery could be covered by insurance. Dr. Kaufman says he hopes learning about this will help some of his patients save money.

More information about a variety of cosmetic procedures can be found on the blog at www.discreetplasticsurgery.com. Those considering cosmetic surgery in Manhattan, can schedule an appointment with Dr. Daniel Kaufman to get setup with a tailored treatment plan.
