December 08, 2017 -
Pensacola, Fla. ? At the end of every year, Creighton Pack & Ship Business Center, a leading provider of FedEx shipping in Pensacola, FL, releases updated information on upcoming shipping changes. This year, FedEx will be making some hefty price changes to its list of services.

The FedEx changes will be steep next year, with an average increase of 4.9 percent across all services. Increases to residential surcharges, non-fuel surcharges, and more will be in full-effect as soon as January 1 hits. All of these charges can substantially increase the cost of shipping depending on how and what an individual sends.

Thomas Armstrong who is the owner of Pack and Ship Business Center, ?The time is approaching fast for people to be aware of the shipping changes ahead. The more prepared one is, the better off they?ll be.?

Every year, the three big carriers (USPS, FedEx, and UPS) announce their shipping rate changes. The post office in Pensacola, FL, is your source in Pensacola for 2018 shipping rate changes ?what changed, by how much, and where you can save the most when you ship your packages next year.

?We always want to ensure that our customers have a means to stay informed about various shipping changes,? Thomas said. ?We?ll continue to help out in any way possible.?
