December 08, 2017 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Newport Beach, California - Many patients come to the offices of Dr. Stefani T. Kappel seeking to look better and increase their self-esteem. Dr. Kappel is aware of this, but she also wanted to share some stories in her new blog post about people who have seen improvements at work due to getting treatments at the dermatologist.

Dr. Kappel offers some explanations as to why former patients have had greater success at the office following cosmetic procedures, one of them being the results of increased self-confidence. She delves into other theories as to the cause of this phenomenon as well as discussing the effects of some of her most popular treatments.

In her blog at www.stefanikappelmd.com, Dr. Kappel further examines what causes many men and women to consider cosmetic surgery in the first place and considers that when discussing their professional success. She wants her blog to be a place where people can go to find expert information regarding many of the most common dermatological and cosmetic procedures. Realizing there is a lot of incorrect information circulating on the internet, Dr. Kappel has chosen to share her knowledge with readers using this platform.

Dr. Kappel offers a variety of cosmetic procedures from facial rejuvenation and Botox to lip injections in Newport Beach. For more information about skincare and cosmetic surgery in Newport Beach, or to set up a consultation or schedule an appointment, call (949)239-0494.
