Badass Beards, a company that produces products for beard health and maintenance in Beaverton, OR, has recently launched their beard oil on Amazon. This product has been designed help people achieve a true "beard of awesomeness". The product, which is completely natural, has been selling quickly and customers are recommended to get theirs as soon as possible.

"It's simple", says Andrew Simpson from Badass Beards, "beards are badass. However, not every beard can be classed as a beard of awesomeness. Those who don't look after their beards properly will notice how it is itchy, smelly and filled with flakes and beardedruff. Our beard oil helps to prevent all of that, creating a true badass beard of awesomeness!"

Badass Beards believes in beards. They believe that growing one is a work of art and that it takes a whole lot of TLC in order to get it to look good. Their oil is designed to make beards softer to the touch, lush in beauty, free from knots and, most importantly, completely healthy. Only a few drops a day will help to achieve this. Indeed, the product will help even the most scraggly beard to look and feel beautiful, as well as fully manageable.

The oil has a few essential oils in it, which help to further condition and moisturize the hair. Additionally, it leaves a lovely hint of a scent behind. As such, those who use it often feel and look as if they came fresh from the barber. This is something that the many positive reviews they have so far received have also commented on. "Badass beard oil is pretty damn BADASS!!", says Shann1977. "Previously I used an astringent alcohol based product but went in search of a softer beard. After just a few applications I had achieved my goal. I was worried the "oil" product would cause acne or the smell would cause me to end up with a headache! However, all is well! My wife even appreciates the pleasant scent! The oil isn't oily by any means. It's a little misleading but a pleasant surprise! The bottle is very cool looking. Bamboo and "branded" is very attractive for a men's personal care item."

One of the things that Badass Beards prides itself on is that all their beard grooming products are ethically sourced. All ingredients are also 100% natural. This helps to get rid of beardruff as well as the dreaded beard itch. The company believes in their product so much that they are even offering a full 90 day money back guarantee. Their goal is to help anyone have a truly badass beard and they feel that their oil can help people to actually achieve that with their own face forest.
