June 28, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Raleigh, NC based company, Better Beyond Coaching Solutions, has announced the launch of their new coaching portal, which works as an extension of the main website. The latest addition to the site will offer clients of the business the opportunity to use a more secure and safe area where homework, special resources, and worksheets will be available to continue with the company's approach to aiding women in setting and achieving goals. They have said the following about how coaching works for those who embrace it:

"When you invest in coaching you'll begin to understand that at this stage of the game, you are primed with wisdom that can help lead you to discover amazing things about yourself that you may have never even known!"

The coaching available through Better Beyond Coaching Solutions is geared toward mid aged women who want to move past a bad breakup or divorce, get more out of their career, build a new chapter of life now that children are grown, find financial security, and succeed in new relationships and endeavors. This newly available portal will reportedly influence further positivity on this journey, and can be reached by visiting

The website and online coaching services are designed and run by master certified life coach, Diane Adkins, who is also a Neuro-Linguistic Programming Practitioner, author, and public speaker. She has been open in her own past experiences and how they worked to push her to find a coach. This is said to have opened her life to the variety of opportunities she may have otherwise missed out on. She explains:

"At the age of 44, my life completely changed - some changes by choice, and some by circumstance. My 23 year marriage suddenly and unexpectedly ended. I was completely burned-out...so I left my career in corporate and decided to make a major midlife career change. In addition, I made taking care of myself a priority (for the first time in a long time), and I finally started living my life on my terms. Oh, and did I mention that I hired a coach!"

Aside from the transparency that Diane offers her clients in her own journey to success, she has also made it clear that she is very passionate about helping the women that she interacts with. She invites anyone with questions, or who needs to talk about their own testimony and current situation, to contact her using the information available on the website.

The coaching packages available through Better Beyond Coaching Solutions vary depending on the option chosen. Each is described in detail on the main website, and include selections such as a 30 day commitment package called Jump Start, with three fifty minute coaching sessions, a 90 day commitment package called Momentum, with nine fifty minute coaching sessions, and many more. There is also a "do it yourself" online coaching package, which gives women the chance to use their own knowledge of themselves to move forward and coach their own lives toward success.
