January 10, 2018, Heber City, Utah?Wasatch Crest, an addiction treatment center in Heber City, Utah, has been awarded the prestigious seal of accreditation from The Joint Commission Organization.

?Accreditation from The Joint Commission reflects an organization?s commitment to excellence in health care practices. This certification is the result of Wasatch Crest?s dedication to performing at the highest levels, on behalf of the clients and families we serve,? according to Jim Huffman, President and Chief Executive Officer of Wasatch Crest.

?This accreditation puts Wasatch Crest in a very select group of programs who share this prestigious designation. I am incredibly proud of our entire team,? Huffman stated.

Rich McDonald, Executive Director of Wasatch Crest stated, ?This accreditation from The Joint Commission is Wasatch Crest's acknowledgement for achieving and maintaining the highest standards and best practices in the treatment industry.?

Our entire team of professionals shares in this recognition, which is the culmination of their hard work, commitment to our team goals, and caring for our clients, their families and the many communities we serve,? McDonald added.

The Joint Commission (JCO) is an independent, not-for-profit organization which accredits and certifies nearly 21,000 health care organizations and programs in the United States, including most major hospitals. JCO accreditation is recognized nationwide as a symbol of quality that reflects an organization's commitment to meeting the highest level of performance standards in health care.

Wasatch Crest Treatment Services is an addiction recovery facility located in Heber City, Utah, and helps clients to recover from substance abuse and co-occurring disorders as well as the attendant traumas associated with addiction.
